

NHS Clinical Entrepreneurs Series

Hosted by  SHIL

Supporting health professionals with a passion for innovation and entrepreneurship

Thursday 28 February 2019, 08:00 – 12:00

Technology & Innovation Centre, University of Strathclyde, Glasgow

08:00 – 08:30	Registration and light breakfast
08:30 – 08:40	Welcome Graham Watson, Executive Chairman, Scottish Health Innovations Ltd (SHIL)
08:40 – 09:10	Innovation and Entrepreneurship – Where are we? A short icebreaker exercise will enable experiences of innovation and entrepreneurship to be shared with likeminded attendees; helping to share knowledge, build communities of support and understand opportunities and challenges in health innovation.
09:10 – 09:30	Developing and Supporting your Business Proposition Dr Robert Rea, Head of Innovation, Scottish Health Innovations Ltd (SHIL)
09:30 – 09:50	Collaboration with Academia Lorna Paul, Professor of Allied Health Science, School of Health and Life Sciences and Assistant Vice Principal – Social Innovation, Glasgow Caledonian University
09:50 – 10:10	Early Stage Investment Gillian MacAulay, Managing Director, Strathclyde University Incubator Limited (SUI)
10:10 – 10:30	Networking and refreshments
10:30 – 10:50	Early Stage Innovation Through to Technical Feasibility Dr Stuart Parks, Head of Clinical Engineering, NHS Greater Glasgow & Clyde
10:50 – 11:10	Creating an NHS Start Up and Pursuing Commercialisation Elaine Gemmell, Director of Quality and Operations, Aurum Biosciences
11:10 – 11:30	Developing a Product to Commercialisation Paul Swinton, Air Ambulance Paramedic, Scottish Ambulance Service and inventor of SCRAM®
11:30 – 11:50	Q&amp;A session
11:50 – 12:00	Networking and refreshments

Programme may be subject to change. Stay up to date

www.shil.co.uk

@ScotHealthInno